Dear Mr Gulliford

Hello my name is Tom L Griffith I have lived and raised my family in Herculaneum Missouri just a block from The Doe Run Company for over 22 years I love this community and the family style atmosphere it possesses To ensure its continuance I have volunteered 4 terms as elected town mayor and 2 terms as elected alderman in ward one where The Doe Run Company is located I also chair the Jefferson County water authority which plans to provide Herculaneum Missouri with its entire water supply by mid 2003 My family and I are active in the CAG meetings being held and attend other special meetings when they are held

I would like to impress and express to you what I have learned from our citizens while serving their needs over the last 18 years Our community has been a quiet community for years and would like to remain so but a few new comers mixed with a few radicals who show no respect for our community have apparently obtained your attention People like Leslie and Jack Warden tell you they are speaking for the community - let me tell you they are not nor or the lawyers who are gold digging our town to death with promises of big money A very large portion of citizens are happy content and feel safe in our community I would like to prove to you that I am correct

Consider this The Doe Run Company is being ordered to spend millions of dollars every year to improve emissions from the plant I would like to see a program established that would allow The Doe Run Company to spend a portion of that money for buy outs of the people want out then see where we are with the community concerns I am not saying make The Doe Run Company stop improving emissions from the plant what I am saying is that 15 ug Pb/m³ standard must be achieved But wouldn't we ALL be doing the right thing by working with the citizens wanting to stay, those wanting to leave and working with The Doe Run Company where everyone wins?

Please find attached a letter that I wrote I asked eligible CAG members to sign a copy if they agreed These individuals signed the attached letters

I have also written a letter to the editor which you may find interesting that also is attached I hope you don't have tunnel vision too!

Cordially

TUNNEL VISION

During a recent public meeting in Herculaneum Missouri I asked a member of the EPA staff assigned to Herculaneum Missouri a leading question Hoping to generate lead concerns in our community instead he demonstrated perfect tunnel vision My question was about the approximate seven thousand elevated children in St. Louis and the children in north St. Louis where the average of elevated children is around 25% and what the EPA was doing about them His answer was that is a lead paint issue! The answer I hoped for was yes lead paint and other sources are present in our area as well and we should all keep in mind that there are other possible lead sources in Herculaneum

In any case where any man woman or child has an elevated blood lead all sources should be identified and corrected but to my demise he not only displayed perfect tunnel vision but he also used a very small tunnel I then asked him are you telling us there is an invisible shield at the Jefferson County line preventing such sources here in Herculaneum Missouri he still would not acknowledge this possibility Now that is real tunnel vision

I have addressed these concerns many times with Angela Minor and Denise Jordan-Izaguirre who are both members of government agencies working hard to educate all of us on living with lead issues from identification to protective precautions to use Citizens must be made aware of such facts as children - nationally - living in homes over 50 years old have a 4.8% blood lead average higher than those living in newer homes Lead paint probably contributes for the most part but there are other attributes that contribute concerning this issue I urge all citizens please do not get caught up in this tunnel vision If you or a loved one experiences higher than normal lead levels there is nothing wrong with looking in that tunnel but please for your children's sake look for and consider sources outside the tunnel as well

My family and I love living in Herculaneum I hope the years I have served in our local government and other community projects have helped our city grow and prosper We must all continue to work together both inside and out of this tunnel to keep our proud Herculaneum heritage alive and prosperous To citizens who have concerns or questions on events happening in our community while I may not know the answer I will do my best to direct you to someone who can I can be reached at (636) 933-3091

IS THE "NPL" RIGHT FOR HERCULANEUM?

Recent media coverage has focused much attention on the EPA's Superfund NPL or National Priorities List Advocates including Herculanum's Community Advisory Group or CAG are pushing for Herculanum to be placed on the NPL because among other reasons it will make federal monies available for a buy-out

Is this the correct solution for the City of Herculanum?

This is an issue that will impact every resident and every business owner in Herculanum That's what other communities that have been placed on the NPL have found out If you live in the 63048 zip code you will be effected Don't let the NPL happen to you without fully understanding its impact Please think about the following points verify the information provided and make sure your voice is heard

1 What is the EPA's Superfund National Priority List?

According to information posted on the U S EPA's web site (www.epa.gov) the Superfund National Priorities List (NPL) primarily serves as an information and management tool It is a part of the Superfund cleanup process Identifying a site for the NPL guides EPA in determining which sites warrant further investigation identifying what actions might be appropriate notifying the public about sites EPA believes warrant further investigation and serving notice to potentially responsible parties (PRP) that EPA may begin remedial action

The EPA is clear on what inclusion on the NPL does not mean It is not a judgment of the activities of the owner or operator of the site It doesn't require owners or operators to take any action And it doesn't assign liability to any person

2 How does the EPA place a site on the NPL? What criteria?

There are three ways for the EPA to place a site on the NPL First the site scores high enough on the EPA's Hazard Ranking System (HRS) Second, a state designates one site as its top priority regardless of the HRS score And third the site must meet all three of the following criteria 1) the Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry (ATSDR) has issued a health advisory recommending removing people from the site and 2) the EPA determines the site poses a significant threat to public health and 3) the EPA expects that it will be more cost-effective to use its remedial authority (available only at NPL sites) than to use its emergency removal authority

Once one of those three ways is undertaken the EPA then publishes its proposal for adding the site to the NPL in the Federal Register and receives comments from the public for 60 days EPA then evaluates the comments it determines whether any change in its position for listing is needed and then finalizes either the listing or decision not to list (source = www.epa.gov/superfund/programs/npl_hrs/nplon.htm)

3 What is the timing of the NPL process? How long can a site remain on the NPL?

The NPL process and the Superfund cleanup process itself can consume considerable periods of time The reasons for the length of time are as varied as the sites themselves They include the extent of the problem at the site the complexity of the remediation the always present possibility of litigation by many different parties the time required for periodic public comment periods limited resources for both the government and the responsible parties and the frustrations of everybody involved as the cleanup seems to drag on

For example the EPA currently lists 27 sites in Missouri as NPL sites The average time between the initial proposal for listing and the final inclusion on the NPL for these 27 sites is 21 months The actual time ranges from 4 months to 33 months Of these 27 Missouri locations, 14 are designated as having completed construction The average time between formal NPL listing and completed construction for these 14 sites is 10 years 3 months The actual times ranges from 5 years to 15 years

Of the 14 sites designated as having completed construction five have been officially de-listed from the NPL The average time for these five sites from completion to de-listing is four years The actual time ranges from 1 5 years to 6 years For these 5 de-listed sites the average time from proposal for addition to the NPL list to de-listing is 15 years 4 months The actual times ranges from 11 years to almost 19 years

4 Are the issues we are facing in Herculanum unique?

Lead is one of the most abundant naturally occurring metals found in the earth's crust. Thus, it is not surprising that lead is found in detectable amounts in thousands of sites around the country. In fact, lead has been found in 1,026 of the 1,467 National Priorities List Superfund sites identified by the EPA.

(source = www.atsdr.cdc.gov/tfacts13.html)

5 How long will NPL cleanup take? What can we learn from other communities?

Two examples, both involving lead, might provide more insights into what might happen if Herculanum were added to the NPL.

The Oronogo-Duenweg Mining Belt site is located in Jasper County, Missouri, near the city of Joplin. The site is an inactive lead and zinc mining and smelting area. Operations began there in the mid 1800s and included hundreds of mines and 17 smelters. One smelter operated in the city of Joplin until the 1970s. About 2,700 residences are located within the mining and smelting areas. The site was first proposed for inclusion on the NPL in June 1988, and officially listed in August 1990. Cleanup activities over the next decade included:

- Six daycare centers and 300 residential homes were cleaned of contaminated soil in the smelter areas.
- In 1991, the EPA and potentially responsible parties signed an Administrative Order on Consent to investigate mining waste. Investigations into the nature and extent of the mining wastes were completed in 1995.
- In 1996, remediation of yard soil was begun and was expected to be completed by the end of 2001.
- In 1998, EPA signed a record of decision to supply about 350 homes with public water supplies. In 1999, a consent decree was completed for the potentially responsible parties to install public water supply systems.
- The EPA also issued two unilateral administrative orders in 1994: one for the PRPs to supply bottled water to residents and the other for the PRPs to conduct additional sampling of private wells and provide bottled water where necessary.

Cleanup activities at the site continue.

The second site involves NL Industries, which operated a secondary lead smelter from about 1900 to 1983 at Granite City, Ill. Lead contamination spread throughout 100 square blocks in three cities, affecting 1,600 residences. The site was first proposed for the NPL in October 1984, and formally placed on the NPL in June 1986. Cleanup activities have included:

- The EPA issued a record of decision in 1990 to clean residential properties to 500 ppm in soil and industrial properties to 1,000 ppm in soil, consolidate and cap the waste pile on the main industrial site, and install a groundwater collection and containment system.
- In 1991, the EPA ordered the PRPs to design and implement the selected remedy; when they failed to do so, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers began cleanup in 1993.
- In 1994, Granite City filed a court motion to obtain a temporary restraining order and injunction for the EPA to stop cleanup. The motion was settled later that year, when the EPA agreed to reopen the administrative record supporting the residential lead standard. When EPA reaffirmed the standard in 1995, Granite City and the PRPs filed a motion for a temporary restraining order and preliminary injunction. The motion was denied by the court in 1996.
- In 1998, the contractor defendants took over the remaining remedial work at the site.
- Some 1,600 residential cleanups were completed by May 2000.

Cleanup work and an operation and maintenance plan continue.

6 Beyond slowing down the cleanup process, are there other considerations to NPL designation?

Even under the best of conditions Superfund cleanups – including and perhaps especially those on the NPL list require a considerable period of time Yet time is not the only cost

Some communities have become so frustrated with the time involved the proposed remediation and many of the other aspects that they have sought de listing sites from the NPL Wichita, Kansas did this with a site near its downtown area in order to speed cleanup and remediation for commercial and industrial development

Superfund and NPL designation also can pose problems for homeowners because mortgage and home equity lenders tend not to want to be involved in these properties (In some cases, mortgage companies have found themselves designated as a potentially responsible party liable for cleanup costs)

The slow pace of cleanup can take a huge emotional toll on residents causing a variety of stress related effects

7 How have other communities dealt with the frustrations mentioned above?

Smuggler Mountain a sub division of Aspen Colorado was able to de list from the NPL but not without considerable conflict (source = www.epa.gov/unix0008/superfund/sites/co/smugmntn.html) In fact some members of the community threatened to lie down in front of bulldozers if regulators brought them in to excavate soils The conflict was resolved through the introduction of a Technical Advisory Committee

Willard Chappell director of the Environmental Sciences Program at the University of Colorado Denver was on the committee He reports that Aspen was named a Superfund site in 1986 It was not until then that people began finding out what that meant One of the things it meant was that residents would have problems getting loans on their property because Ginnie Mae and other mortgage holders could have become a responsible party (PRP) and could have been held liable for the costs of clean up So when people started trying to get a second mortgage to put a kid through college or put a roof on or do something else they found out that they couldn't get a loan So a Superfund designation does have impacts on individuals (source = www.colorado.edu/conflict/full_text_search/AllCRCDocs/93-1.htm)

It took an act of Congress to get Silver Creek Utah (near Park City) de-listed (source = SARA, Section 118 paragraph P) Silver Creek had a very active Stakeholders Group that lead the discussion (source = www.silvercreekpc.org/index.htm)

Bunker Hill in Shoshone County Idaho is currently fighting to be taken off the NPL That site was originally listed in December 1982 and is still active today In the intervening years regulators have continued to create lower and lower cleanup values (levels) and greatly increased the area being remediated In fact recent proposals have suggested the remediation of the entire Coeur d Alene River Basin including dredging Lake Coeur d Alene thus creating a site the size of the State of Rhode Island The cost is estimated in the billions of dollars and will add thirty years to the completion date

In response local citizens have created the Shoshone Natural Resources Coalition Science Committee The group is comprised of respected scientists who are challenging the science and the methods being imposed by regulators (source = <http://snrcsciencecommittee.org>) A review of their April 12 2001 Science Summit provides insights into both the scientific mistakes they see being made by regulators and to the impact on the local residents Committee member William Calhoun discusses the demoralization and fracturing of our area families

In his presentation Mr Calhoun states The ripple effect began with the closing of the Bunker Hill (smelter) and is now accelerating The county has dropped from approximately 21 000 population overall to 13 771 The county tax base has been hard hit Within the county currently there are 350 houses available for sale and this does not include those that are offered by the owner or have been offered and taken off the market Many of these homes are in the neighborhood of ¾ paid for

And committee member Bob Hopper concludes Your agency was originally created with salvation in mind coming in on a white horse to take on the evil empire Now after many years of power you and your agency have adopted the persona of the evil empire you were created to defend against Who will defend us against you?

8 How is Doe Run impacted by the NPL?

The NPL designation will have little impact on Doe Run. As stated earlier, NPL designation is not a judgment of the activities of the owner or operator of the site. Further, as indicated above, NPL designation typically extends the timing of the cleanup. NPL designation would probably help Doe Run by stretching out the costs of cleanup. In other words, NPL designation has a much greater impact on the citizens of Herculaneum than it does on Doe Run. We, the citizens, need to be active on this issue.

9 Does the EPA feel that Herculaneum should be on the NPL?

The EPA has stated on several occasions that the NPL designation is not right for Herculaneum. They have gone on record in the Post Dispatch on KMOX radio and again at the CAG meeting on February 19, 2002 that Superfund NPL is inappropriate at this time. Doe Run has to date complied with all that has been asked of them. The EPA has said that as long as Doe Run continues to comply, NPL designation for our community is not necessary.

10 Why does the NPL continue to gather momentum in Herculaneum?

A number of vocal residents, along with environmental activists and plaintiff attorneys are pushing this issue through the Community Advisory Committee (CAG). The CAG has convinced U.S. Representative Richard Gephardt, U.S. Senator Jean Carnahan, and Missouri Governor Holden that they are speaking for the whole community. So Gephardt, Carnahan, and Holden have requested the EPA to designate Herculaneum as a Superfund NPL site.

We, the majority of the residents of Herculaneum, can no longer be silent on this issue. We must speak out based on the facts and sound science as opposed to the emotion of the CAG.

11 Are we taking Doe Run's "side" on this issue?

No. In fact, we believe that Doe Run must be held accountable for their actions in Herculaneum. Our concern is for the whole town of Herculaneum. We are on Herculaneum's side. And NPL Superfund designation is not right for the town of Herculaneum.

12 What can you do to help our town?

Too many of us have remained silent on this issue. Some have been frustrated by what they saw during the CAG meetings, so they withdrew further. The outside activists and attorneys and a handful of residents do not represent the will of the entire community. NPL will impact the entire community. You must get involved.

Please sign our petition or write a letter to the officials below. Let them know that you are opposed to the NPL designation and that you are in support of the EPA position that Herculaneum does not belong on the NPL. HERCULANEUM FIRST is a coalition of residents from the City of Herculaneum. We are dedicated to the needs of the community, placing community over individual needs.

In the next issue of HERCULANEUM ISSUES, we will question some of the science that a few regulators have grabbed headlines with. These people must be held accountable for what they are saying about our community. We appreciate their desire to safeguard the health of the town's citizens, but let's be sure that what they are saying is factual and based on sound science.
